WARSHIP TRANSFER TO PACIFIC COAST

Admiral Dewey Gives His Views Regarding the Same.

HIS PEACE MISSION, HE SAYS

No Enemies to Threaten Atlantic Coast, He Says, but If There Were Our Army Could Take Care of the Situation.

New York, July 9—Admiral Dewey, who is sojourning for the summer at Richfield Springs, N. Y., is quoted in an interview published in the American Monday as saying in regard to the transfer of the battleship fleet to the Pacific:

"It is a pity we have not ships enough to keep powerful fleets in both oceans, but since we have not, it seems that in the interests of peace it is best at this time that our fleet should be in the Pacific.

"This cruiser transfer, or whatever you like to call it, is a mission of peace. I do not think it likely that this country will become seriously involved with any power. But, if trouble should come by any chance, it is well to be fully prepared for it.

Balance of Sea Power on Pacific.

"It is necessary for us to hold the balance of sea power on the Pacific The defences on that coast are not up to the standard of the Atlantic. That the nation that has this power controls the situation was proven in the war with Spain.

"There were 175,000 Spanish soldiers on the island when Cervera's fleet sailed out of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. With the sinking of the fleet the war practically ended.

"Fortunately, the United States is so big and has such vast internal resources that it cannot be bottled up as were the Spaniards, but the necessity for power on the seas remains:

As To Philippine Waters.

In discussing the possibility of the fleet going to the Philippines, the admiral said:

"I would say that unless the danger was most imminent, it would not be advisable to concentrate a large fleet with hundreds of officers and thousands of men in Philippine waters. The climate is not right, as I know from past experience.

"I believe one of the reasons we had such an easy victory over the Spaniards was that they had been so long in that enervating climate. I am certain that we would not have fought so well when we left as when we entered.

"An enemy might take the Philippines and Hawaii, but as soon as we met them on the sea they would have to give them up. The very presence of our sea force in the Pacific will serve every purpose."

Admiral Dewey said there should be no trouble in getting around into the Pacific. The battleships, he said, should have no more difficulty than a ferry has in crossing to Hoboken. It was merely a question of coal and a question of dollars.

So far as leaving the Atlantic coast unprotected by the transfer of the fleet, Admiral Dewey said there was nothing to fear. There are no enemies to threaten the Atlantic, he said, and even if there were, the army could take care of them. The admiral said the coast defenses here are in excellent shape.

Possible Effects of Transfer.

Admiral Dewey intimated that he saw two possible effects of importance in the transfer of the fleet. He believes it will urge the construction of another Atlantic fleet with the ships now building as a nucleus and he hopes it will stimulate and hasten the completion of the Panama canal.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT ATHENS.

Attendance Reaches 300—Jamestown Exposition Trip Planned.

Athens, Ga., July 9.—The first week of the session of the University of Georgia summer school is over and the attendance has now reached 275, or within 25 of the total attendance last year.

The lecture series is very interesting. During the past week Superintendent Lawton B. Evans, of Augusta, delivered five lectures and Professor W. H. Bocock one lecture. During the present week the lecturers will be Dr. Lincoln Hulley, president of Stetson university, and Dr. H. M. Mamill, the famous Sunday school editor and lecturer.

At the conclusion of the school the entire body will go to the Jamestown exposition.

ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE.

Crime Committed a Month Ago—Body Was Put on Track.

Macon, Ga., July 9—Deputy Sheriffs T. H. Jones, D. W. McCoy and J. T. Wilson arrested four negroes at Walden Sunday morning and lodged them in Bibb county jail, charged with the murder of Marshall Hardwick, a negro preacher, whose body was found mangled on the track of the Central railway a month ago in the vicinity.

Hardwick was a preacher and had started away from his church, where he had just taken his collection The death is said to have been the result of a determination on the part of the four negroes to murder and rob him and then place the body on the railroad track. The names given are those of Will Minchew, Doc Sanford, George Whitfield and Edgar Jackson.

Riot In a Mining Town.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 9—In a riot at Montlake, a mining town 18 miles from this city, Len Reynolds, president of the Miners' union, was fatally shot by W. H. Bellows, a labor agent, who had taken three non-union men to Montlake to work for the Montlake Mining company. Bellows surrendered and when the officers reached the railroad station with his prisoner, about 100 union miners were awaiting for the labor agent, with the intention of doing violence to him. After a rought and tumble fight, the officer escaped with his prisoner and succeeded in landing his man safely in jail. Later advices state that Reynolds died of his wound.

They were located Sunday by Sheriff Kitchens and Marshal Charles Smith, and a posse organized to effect their capture. The two negroes were in a secluded cabin, and when the posse approached the hiding place it divided to surround the four sides. Maje Ruff was not found, but Margraves was cornered and showed fight. He was fired on and killed by the posse. All of the parties concerned were desperate negro characters of the moonshine and blind tiger section of the state.

AERONAUT THOMAS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

He and Two Women Companions Seriously Injured.

MACHINE HIT A TROLLEY POLE

Occupants Hurled from Machine as from a Catapult—One Woman Had to Have Her Leg Amputated—Dr. Thomas Also May Lose a Leg.

New York, July 9.—Dr. Julian Thomas, the aeronaut, lies in a serious condition at Fordham hospital, suffering from a compound fracture of the leg and internal injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday night when the machine carrying the aeronaut and two women companions, crashed into a trolley pole in the Bronx.

Physicians said Monday that Dr. Thomas might have to suffer the amputation of his leg. Miss Florence Haas, an actress, who, with Miss Grace Rogers was with Dr. Thomas when the accident occurred, was so seriously injured that physicians amputated her left leg Monday at Fordham hospital. Miss Rogers was injured internally, but probably will recover.

Going at a High Speed.

Dr. Thomas and his friends were traveling at a high rate of speed down Jerome avenue Sunday night. Near the entrance of Woodlawn cemetery the road makes a sharp turn, which the aeronaut evidently did not see in the darkness. The machine crashed into a heavy trolley pole, and Dr. Thomas and his two companions were flung out of the machine as if from a catapult. The automobile was reduced to scrap iron by the impact.

The report of the crash was heard for some distance and mounted police and autoists hurried to the scene and the injured were taken to the hospital.

Dr. Thomas was found to have sustained a fracture of the right leg and to have suffered internal injuries. His body was covered with bruises. Miss Haas and Miss Rogers both were unconscious when found lying in the roadway. The physicians found that Miss Haas would have to undergo the amputation of her left lew to save her life.

Fatal Spot for Accidents.

The curve where the accident occurred Sunday night is extremely dangerous, and there have been many accidents at that point. Two women were killed at the curve last year in an automobile accident similar to the one Sunday night.

2 KILLED; 9 INJURED.

Clarksburg, W. V., July 9.—Heavily laden with passengers who were enjoying an outing, an open trolley car on the Fairmont and Clarksbug Traction company's system jumped the tracks on the Crassell division, just outside the city limits Sunday night and crashed over an embankment, instantly killing two, fatally injuring one and seriously injuring nine others.

How the car left the track is a mystery the traction company officials cannot explain. It was running up hill around a curve and going at a moderate speed.

After bounding along the ties for a short distance the car went over the embankment and landed on its side, pinning the dead and injured underneath. Motorman James and Conductor Fitzpatrick escaped with slight injuries. Most of the injured were taken to city hospitals and some to their homes.

Orphans' Home Assured.

Montgomrey, Ala., July 9.—Judge Dan Greene, of Birmingham, member of the state Masonic committee, announces that more than enough lodges have voted affirmatively to insure the erection of a widows' and orphans' home and for the state, which will likely be located at some small town.

AUSTELL MAN SHOT BY SON.

Boy Claims He Was Protecting His Mother and Aunt.

Austell, Ga., July 9.—W. A. Camp, one of the most prominent citizens of Austell, was shot by his 16-year-old son, Hosey, Saturday afternoon.

The young man claims that his father pulled his aunt, Camp's own sister, out into the yard by her hair, and was in the act of striking his mother when he shot. The boy used a shotgun.

The entire load struck his father in his left side, tearing his right arm off below the elbow, some shot entering the body. Mr. Camp's condition is dangerous, though it is thought that he will recover.

Surgeons came out in an automobile from Atlanta to assist the surgeons here in amputating his arm. Mr. Camp has only been a resident of Austell for the past year, and is originally from Cedartown, Ga.

Under the circumstances, it is believed the boy was justified in protecting his mother and aunt.

RIVER STEAMER STRIKES ROCK

Victoria, B. C., July 9.—A special from Ketchas Canon, on the Skenaa river says that the river stern-wheel steamer Mount Royal struck a rock Saturday afternoon and went to pieces within five minutes. It is reported that a number of lives were lost.

A telegram to the Hudson Bay company says that Captain Johnson, of the Mount Royal, is among the survivors on King Bolt island, to which many escaped. The chief and the second engineers floated through the canyon on debris, and were rescued by Indians.

The Mount Royal was on the way down the river. The telegraph operator at Ketchas said he did not think the loss of life was heavy.

"Didn't Know It Was Loaded."

Decatur, Ala., July 9.—Mrs. Elmer Pitt, a bride of only a few weeks, was accidentally shot with a revolver in the hands of her husband, at their home near Moulton, in Lawrence county. It is the old story of not knowing the weapon was loaded. Mr. Pitt and his wife were preparing to go to a picnic, when the accident happened. Mrs. Pitt was standing in front of a dresser, putting on her hat and her husband took an old rusty revolver from the dresser drawer and was cleaning it when it was discharged. The ball entered the fleshy portion of Mrs. Pitt's hip, causing only a flesh wound.

Railway Rate Case Concluded.

Asheville, N. C., July 9—The railway rate case hearing, which was begun in this city before Judge Pritchard, in the United States circuit court, June 26, was concluded Saturday. Judge Pitchard will render his decision in the Virginia case at Richmond Wednesday. The case against the corporation commission of Virginia is somewhat different to that against the same body of North Carolina, in that the attorneys for the railroads in the former state raised the question of jurisdiction.

Bankhead Ready for Toga.

Montgomery, Ala., July 9—Jno. H. Bankhead has engaged headquarters at the Exchange hotel where he will remain until the vote is taken this week for United States senator to succeed the late Senator Morgan. It is regarded that the matter is settled and he will be elected by an overwhelming majority. So far as can be determined, Jesse Stallings, of Birmingham, the only other candidate, is not making any canvass and does not seem to be seriously in the fight.

Longworths Going to Hawaii.

San Francisco, July 9.—According to a private telegram received Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth will arrive in San Francisco in a day or two, enroute, it is said, to Hawaii. They are planning to come into San Francisco quietly and avoid publicity and the arrangements in connection with their coming have been made so privately that even their personal friends do not know of their plans.

Keyport, N. J., July 9.—Christopher Horandt, a wealthy silk manufacturer of Paterson, was killed and other members of his family injured when a locomotive struck and demolished an automobile in which the party was returning home from Asbury park.

The accident happened at the Stone Road crossing on the Atlantic Highlands division of the New Jersey Central railroad.

With Mr. Horandt were his wife, his daughter, Ruth, and his nephew, Rheinhardt Binger. All but Mrs. Horandt were thrown from the automobile.

Won't Serve in Eddy Case.

Providence, R. I., July 9.—Dr. G. O. Blumer, of the staff of Butler insane hospital and one of the best known experts on mental diseases in Rhode Island, has declined to act as one of the co-masters in the examination to determine the competency of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, the Christian Science leader, whose property and condition are at present the subject of a lawsuit brought by her "next friends" against several prominent members of the Christian Science denomination. An approaching European trip of several months is assigned by Dr. Blumer as the reason for his declination of the commission.

Denies Orchard Testimony.

DE JOHNSON ILLED BY LIGHTNING

Known Colored Man Meets Sudden Death.

WAS WELL LIKED

The White People and All Regarded Him as a Most Desirable Citizen, Always Peaceable and Industrious. Body Found Under a Large Tree.

A report reached this city Tuesday of the sudden death of Wade Johnson, a respectable and ambitious colored farmer, who was killed by lightning near his farm at Rocky Point in the thunder storm of Monday afternoon.

From reports it seems that Johnson, after his afternoon's work, had gone to a lake a quarter of a mile away with his team and a barrel, intending to return with a barrel of water. While he was at the lake filling his barrel a rainstorm came up which was followed by a terrific thunder storm. Johnson left his team at the lake and took shelter under an oak tree, when the lightning stripped the tree and struck the victim dead. ... must have been an hour after the ... which killed his master ... faithful horse, with his load ... barrel half filled with water, ... in front of his master's house. ... suspicioned something, the ... coming without its driver, and ... summoned the neighbors. ... party was soon formed ... to the lake, where in the ... about fifty yards distant, ... found the dead body of the ... under the tree which had been ... by lightning.

The melon was one of the finest a knife ever entered, and the commissioners after a few minutes returned to their duties full of melon and ambition, for the former of which they are indebted to "Uncle John."

Religious Services End in Row.

Phoenix City, Ga., July 9—An imposing procession wended its way to the guard house at an early hour on Sunday morning. Two bodies of negroes in the suburbs of that city, both engaged in religious services, had a general mixup and officers went out to restore quiet. In the crowd they arrested were two preachers and 17 negroes of the band. The negro musicians, carrying their instruments, were marched in a body to the lockup, when one by one they arranged bond. No one was seriously hurt in the disturbance that occurred.

NEWBERRY SAFE WAS NOT BLOWN

Report in Jacksonville Metropolis Was Erroneous.

ONLY CASH DRAWER TAKEN

The Safe Was Unlocked and Door Open, When, During a Busy Season of the Clerks, the Robber Entered and Extricated the Cash Drawer.

The correspondent of The Metropolis, or at least the informant, was mistaken in stating that the safe of Tucker & Roland was blown open in Newberry Saturday night. While The Metropolis man was sincere in what he said, the safe was not blown, but the robbery occurred from a cash drawer in the safe, when the safe was open.

The Sun also made a slight error in reporting the robbery, stating that the regular counter cash drawer was robbed.

Mr. Tucker, of the firm of Tucker & Roland, was in communication with The Sun by telephone Tuesday. He states that the robbery occurred on Saturday night, and that the drawer taken was from the safe, but the safe was open.

The financial loss of Tucker & Roland was not as large as at first rumored. There was a large number of checks and drafts in the drawer, aggregating a considerable amount, but only $135 in cash.

No clue has yet been secured, hence the officers are on what might be termed a "wild goose" chase.

The robbery occurred while the store was open and was full of customers. This makes the robbery all the more mysterious, but it is hoped to sift the mystery down in a short while.

As a matter of course the paper is not negotiable without the proper endorsements, and if any attempt is made to negotiate same the robbers will be apprehended.

THE RECENT CONFEDERATE REUNION AND SOME INTERESTING REMINISCENCES

As Told by Captain A. R. Elmore.

I intended immediately on my return from the Richmond reunion and Jamestown Exposition to write you something of my trip, feeling that it might interest some of your readers, and the "old Vets" who did not go, but have not been able on account of sickness to do so before now.

So far as the pageant in Richmond is concerned I shall say but little. So much has been written by abler pens than mine of the different reunions that there is little to be said that would be new. There is a wonderful sameness in them all. The same exercise, the same parade, the same excitement of meeting old comrades whom you have not seen for forty or more years, the familiar "Hello Bill," and "How are you, Bob," all go, however, to make up a program for the "old Vet," the sameness of which, though of intense interest to him, holds little for the second generation.

A Magnificent Parade.

The parade was a magnificent spectacle. The general and staff officers, all in the old regulation Confederate States uniforms, on fine horses, looked well and presented to the Confederate eye moving pictures of the days of 1861 to 1865.

Noticeable in this line were the old "Richmond Blues" and "Richmond Howitzers." These two companies, in gorgeous uniform, made a magnificent appearance, whose "tout ensemble" showed vastly different from what it did at Appomattox, after four years of hard service and fighting. The guns of the battery looked so bright and new and the sleek, fat horses so different from the Confederate "shadows," that hauled them about on many of the hard-fought battlefields of the war. Two old Virginia Vets, whom I was with as the parade passed, turned to me and said: "Captain, how long do you think those fine uniforms and hats would have lasted on the heights of Gettysburg?" I replied: "As long as there was life left in a Virginia soldier."

The unveiling of the J. E. B. Stuart monument was a grand and glorious spectacle, though only those who were very near could hear one word of the speech.

Grave of Jeff Davis.

I also visited the grave of Jefferson Davis in Hollywood Cemetery. By the side of his grave are those of Mrs. Davis and his daughter, Miss Winnie. Nearby is the grave of Fitz Hugh Lee. I will attempt no description of this truly, beautiful and picturesque cemetery, in which lie the remains of three Presidents of the United States, and the only one of the Confederate States, also the bodies of many of the most famous Confederate generals. I will summarise by saying that the cemetery extends along a high bluff overlooking the James river, is beautifully laid out in plots, covered with green grass, broad walks and lovely oaks covered with ivey and Indian creeper. It is a very large cemetery, and has, I will venture to say, more beautiful and costly monuments than any other in the South.

Battlefield of Seven Pines.

I also went to the battlefields of Seven Pines and Fair Oaks, and stood upon the historic spot where Gen. Jos. E. Johnston fell, when struck by a piece of shell, and also the little grove of oaks to which he was carried, and from which the place derives its name. Those oaks still bear the scars of battle, showing in many places the "healovers," where the bark had been chopped into by the hatchets of ruthless relic hunters, looking for bullets. Beyond Fair Oaks is Seven Pines, about one mile. These places are on the Southern railroad from Richmond to West Point, at the head of the York river and are also reached by an electric railroad from Richmond. At Seven Pines there is a small station, one or two little shops, a battlefield relic shop containing shot and shell, broken and rusty old guns, bayonets, swords, knives, canteens and old pieces of uniforms, hats, caps, etc. There is also a small cemetery of many of the old heroes, who fell upon that fateful field. It is enclosed by a wall with a neat and attractive cottage for the janitor or keeper, and is kept in beautiful order.

Trip to Petersburg.

I also took the electric car and went over to Petersburg, and visited the "Crater." I could recognize nothing in the country around there, though my regiment, the Fourth South Carolina Cavalry, under Hampton, did lots of hard service and fighting all around there. Though not actually engaged the day the crater was blown up, our cavalry was but a mile or two from it, on the left, and heard it although we did not see it.

The battlefields now give but little evidence of the tides of life and death that once surged across them. The hoe and the plowshare have succeeded the musket and sword, and the old breastworks now only show as plantation ditches, grown up in weeds and underbrush. Bullets, battered and rusty, can still be picked up on the field in front of the crater by close hunting. I was fortunate enough to secure six, which, however, I bought for a quarter from a little darkey.

A Pleasant Party.

In the Pullman car from Jacksonville with me were Gov. F. P. Fleming and his wife, and also his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, who, with Miss Alene Buckman, daughter of Senator H. H. Buckman, were maids of honor to Miss Mitchell, the sponsor for the Jacksonville camp of the Sons of Veterans, and formed a trio of young ladies whose delightful charm, refinement and elegance of manner, contributed much to the enjoyment of our party, and were a distinct credit to the society of Jacksonville. My son, Tom Elmore, was also one of the party, and I am sure no more pleasant or congenial a little party left the State of Florida than ours.

Meets Old Friends.

At Murphey's Hotel in Richmond I found my friend of more than forty-five years ago—Allen Deas of Camden, S. C., and also a warm friend and cotemporary of Kit Matheson of your town. Old Kit will, I know, be both interested and pleased to know that "Pap" and I hung together for several days and took in many of the "good things" that were to be seen and had in Richmond. While there we were joined by Walter and Ed Kennedy from Texas, who left South Carolina at the close of the war. We were boys together, and intimately associated together for years before the war began, and we had not met before in more than 40 years. They are own nephews of Mr. Chas. E. Haile, and first cousins of Mr. J. D. and W. C. Matheson. It was indeed a happy "little" reunion—this little party of old friends from my own old South Carolina, but is chastened by the knowledge that it is the last perhaps on this earth. This thought, however, is to a great extent bereft of sadness by the reflection that we can if we will, meet in a better land beyond. We have met "like ships in the night;" we have passed; we are gone.

In the parade were many old veterans who will never see another reunion—their snowcapped heads and feeble step, forceful reminders of the fact that

And all that Wealth e're gave Await alike the envitable hour.
The Paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Confederate White House.

I also visited the Confederate White House, the home of our President during the four years' war. It is now owned, I believe, by the city of Richmond, and is conducted as a Confederate museum, in which are exhibited war relics of every description—the swords of Lee and Jackson, and many others of note, a lock of Gen. Lee's famous horse, Traveler's mane, and many pistols, guns, pikes, Confederate money, and a heterogenius mass of everything that was ever used in war. The house from the outside looked just as it did when I last saw it in 1864, but the inside was far different. The soft carpets are all gone, and instead the floors have been turned into cement to withstand the constant tread of visitors, who go there from all parts of the world.

To approach the President of the United States in these days a lot of "red tape" has to be crossed, but in those days, when the souls of men were tried, the humblest private could easily reach our noble President. I remember well calling upon him in 1864 when I was but an unkempt private in Company K, Fourth S. C. Cavalry, and my cordial reception both by him and Mrs. Davis. I will here state that when my father, Franklin H. Elmore represented South Carolina in the U. S. Senate, as the successor of the great Calhoun, he and Mr. Davis became warm personal friends, and always took a home together. Mrs. Davis and my mother were equally as warm in their attachment to each other, and I then only six years of age, was quite a pet of both Mr. and Mrs. Davis, and was frequently left in the care of Mrs. Davis when my mother would go out.

How He Was Commissioned.

This is by way of introduction to the manner in which I gained access to Mr. Davis' presence. As I approached the house a sentinel was walking the pavement in front of the house, and I was peremptorily commanded to halt, and denied admittance. Just then the front door opened and a negro looked out. I immediately called to him to tell Mr. Davis that "Mr. Elmore of South Carolina" had called. In less than a minute the door was open, and in my mind I can now see the noble figure of our President, as he called to me "Are you Mr. Elmore?" "Yes sir."

"Come right in, I am glad to see you, sir. Are you a relative of my old friend Col. Franklin H. Elmore?"

"His son, sir."

"Ah, then you are the little boy I used to dance on my knee, in Washington?"

"Yes sir, the same."

He then took me into his library, and for half an hour chatted with me upon terms of as perfect equality as if I had been one of his generals. He then and there promised me to instruct Mr. J. A. Seddon, our Secretary of War, to commission me as Second Lieutenant in the First S. C. Regular Infantry, which was done shortly afterwards, said commission bearing the signature of "J. A. Seddon, Secretary of War."

I had the pleasure of letting your Editor, Hon. H. H. McCreary, read this commission, which was afterwards destroyed, when my house and contents were burned in the great Jacksonville fire in 1901.

I was then lead by Mr. Davis into the small room on the right, as you enter the front door, and pleasantly recalled to the remembrance of Mrs. Davis, who, although the room was full of generals and big officers, took me by both hands, saying she wanted me all to herself, and lead me to a small tete-a-tete sofa and devoted fifteen or twenty minutes exclusively to me, recalling many happy associations of herself with my mother and father. I recognized the room perfectly, even though quiltless of carpet and furniture and filled instead with only relics of a dead hope, and a dead past.

I have given the above facts in no spirit of egotism, but rather as a criticism of the Democratic tendencies of those days, as compared to the Republican measure of red tape, now necessary to the approach to any high Government official.

I had the pleasure of meeting several times at West Point, Virginia, with the Rev. Mr. Waugh, who used to live in Gainesville. He looked remarkably well and enquired after many of his old friends—says he would be glad to come back to Florida, and that he really hones after some genuine Florida syrup.

In conclusion let me give my record of service in the Confederate States Army—it may interest some of my friends:

Private in cavalry company from Columbia, S. C., my uncle, Alex R. Taylor, captain on duty at Charleston during battle of Fort Sumpter, April, 1861. Private Company C, Cavalry, Hampton Legion, arriving in Virginia just in time for first battle of Manassas. Col Wade Hampton, wounded severely. Lieutenant Col. Ben Johnson killed. Our cavalry at Ashland and not engaged. In 1862 Sergeant-Major of Seventh South Carolina battalion, Hagood's Brigade, Hokes D. V.; 1864—Resigned and went back to cavalry as private Company K, Fourth South Carolina Cavalry, Butler's Division, Hampton Cavalry in Virginia; 1864—Appointed Second Lieutenant, First South Carolina Regulars, stationed in St. Augustine; 1865—Regiment surrender with Gen. Jos. E. Johnston, at Greensboro, N. C., refused my parole, stole a mule out of quartermaster's department and struck out for home, swam the Catawba river above Charlotte, and got home safely, having never surrendered. Suppose I am still an "unconstructed Rebel."

BACKACHE AND DESPONDENCY

MISS LENA NAGEL

Are both symptoms of organic derangement, and nature's warning to women of a trouble which will sooner or later declare itself.

How often do we hear women say, "It seems as though my back would break." Yet they continue to drag along and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, dragging sensations, nervousness and no ambition.

They do not realize that the back is the main-spring of woman's organism and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the feminine organs or kidneys, and that aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

made from native roots and herbs has been for many years the most successful remedy in such cases. No other medicine has such a record of cures of feminine ills.

Miss Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes—"I was completely worn out and on the verge of nervous prostration. My back ached all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints, such as Backache, Falling and Displacements, and all Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the Stomach. Cures Headache and Indigestion and invigorates the whole feminine system.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

The Jacksonville fans have agreed to present Mullaney, manager of the local baseball team, with a purse of [illegible] if the Jacksonville team wins the South Atlantic pennant. The purse is well worth trying for.

In 1896 the Democratic platform declared that the separation of the [illegible] from banking institutions is indispensable for the safety of the funds of the Government and the rights of the people. Isn't that proposition as true today as it was [illegible] years ago?

John D. Rockefeller says that the [illegible] of his fortune came on that [illegible], as a boy hoeing corn at [illegible] a day, he made the discovery that [illegible] put out at 7 per cent a [illegible] would have an interest return [illegible] the amount of money he [illegible] in seven days at the rate [illegible] he was then receiving.

[illegible] of Tallahassee [illegible] endorsed by leading [illegible] for judge of the Northern circuit of the United States Court to [illegible] Judge Swayne, deceased. If [illegible] Roosevelt desires to demonstrate his kindly feeling for the South, he cannot more clearly manifest it than by the appointment of Col. [illegible] to this responsible position.

Northern contemporaries who are prone to harp upon the alleged political injustice practiced upon the negro in the South will please take notice that in the Georgia Legislature a contested election case has been decided in favor of the negro contestee and against the white contestant. The negro might have been ousted on a technicality, but the Georgia Legislature stands by the square deal.

The reason why there is at present so much popular feeling against corporations in general is that men who manage these institutions make use of public franchises, which are really nothing but licenses to serve the people, as means and instruments of oppression, extortion, and corruption, and convert their license to serve into a power to tax—a power which none but the Government should possess or exercise.

The Florida Railroad Commission is being commended for the excellent judgment shown in the selection of Mr. Frank Damon of Tallahassee as inspector of railroads and property, a position created by the last Legislature. Mr. Damon is a Tallahasseean by birth and has spent the greater part of his life in Florida. He has had ample experience in railroad construction work, having followed it continuously since 1880.

The Republican leaders of Massachusetts sternly demand the abolition of the tariff duty on peanuts. Thus is the great protective system crumbling through peanut politics in its very cradle. "Give us free peanuts, and tax all else as the trusts may desire!" say the Republicans. As to clothing, sewing machines, watches, steel rails, wire, cotton goods, carpets, rugs, chemicals, coal, lumber, etc., let them all be taxed; but give us peanuts free of duty. Truly, a Republican is a peanut reformer.

HOW DO YOU FIGURE IT?

With three candidates for the Senate, one each for Congressman in two districts and four from another, three for Governor, two each for comptroller, commissioner of agriculture and supreme court justice, four for railroad commissioner and one each for secretary of State, attorney-general, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, State chemist and adjutant-general, Duncan Fletcher is already assured of $[illegible] as entrance fees with which to pay the expenses of the primary.—Pensacola Journal.

Kindly inform us how you figure the above, Bro. Mayes. The State Committee can only assess candidates five per cent of one year's salary, and we fail to see how the above list would put more than $[illegible] into the treasury of the committee.

We continue to get unsolicited testimonials from visiting Florida newspaper men to the substantial excellence and progressive spirit of our solid, growing little city of Live Oak. Editor McCreary of The Gainesville Sun is the last to come forward with his tribute and it is characteristic of the man—frank, clear, honest, comprehensive and right to the point, with no frills on it, refreshing, sensible and without a trace of flattery in it. Mr. McCreary doesn't find our city "pretty" because some of the buildings on the business streets are not in line with the others, but as a matter of fact that can be said of very few of them, uniformity being the rule in nearly all of the commercial district. But barring this minor objection, The Sun editor finds us all right and does us justice.—Live Oak Daily Democrat.

"One lone negro showed up as a member of the Georgia Legislature when it met the other day," says The Live Oak Democrat, "and his seat was contested by a white man. Nothing would have been easier than to unseat him on a technicality, but the legislative sense of justice was too strong, and it appearing that the negro had really received a majority of the votes he was allowed to keep his seat. This is not the kind of politics we are supposed to play in the case of the negro, according to the Northern theory, and it's not the kind of politics a Republican Congress has been in the habit of playing in the case of a Southern Congressman when his seat was contested by a negro."

The city primary at Perry on July 2nd was the most closely contested in the history of the town, 154 votes being polled out of a total qualified list of 157. The dispensary advocates nominated their candidate for mayor and three of the four aldermen. It seems that the last Legislature enacted a special charter for Perry giving the city council authority to establish a dispensary, no vote having ever been taken prohibiting the sale of liquor in Taylor county, and the dispensary people claim that they will have a majority of the council and give the system a thorough trial. Other Florida towns will await the result with interest.

James J. Hill says that the credit of the railroads has been ruined. Loss of credit, of course, means that the public has lost confidence in the managers of the railroad corporations; and for that result the Harrimans, Schiffs, Cassatts, and others who have been involved in the scandals of the past two years are responsible. No doubt these men would be glad to unload their watered stock on the Government. But that scheme won't work.

Among the Southern men who are being urged by their friends for the Democratic nomination for President [illegible] Folk of Missouri. There seems to be a complaint between the Republican officials of the United States Treasury and [illegible] officers that [illegible] smuggle and get caught [illegible] will be let off by the payment of the tariff duty, but if they are not caught there is no harm done. As long as the tariff that protects the trusts is the law of the land [illegible] officers have no more right [illegible] paying the tariff taxes than the rest of us and if they persist in smuggling they should be punished as the law directs.

Congressman Burton of Ohio has declared for tariff reform. In a speech at Aurora he said: "Republicans must give early attention to the revision of the tariff. The time is already ripe." He wants "freer access to our markets," or, in other words, freer trade. With Burton a free trader and Knox a strict constructionist, it looks as if the Republican party had troubles of its own.

No great orator has ever been elected President of the United States. It requires so much time and labor to become an orator that when a man has finally been successful in that endeavor he is not supposed to be fit for any other occupation. He is too magnetic, too poetical and sympathetic, too ethereal in his makeup to suit the hardheaded, practical men who control political events.

[On]e of the boys on the Atlantic [Coast] Line pier Tuesday morning put [a] joke on the pelicans. The strangest [part o]f the examination was that the [leg an]d arm bones of each Indian [were] broken off smooth—the legs [brok]en midway between the ankle [and k]nee and the arms between the [wrist] and elbow. Rats are thought to have uncovered an electric wire, causing the fire.

Atlanta Man Killed by Train.

Valdosta, Ga., July 9.—Golding Black, a white barber, who has been running a shop in Waycross for some time, was instantly killed here Saturday in attempting to board a train on the Atlantic Coast Line. He missed a passenger train, and attempted to get in the caboose of a rapidly moving freight, when he was knocked down, his neck being broken. The dead man is said to have a wife and four children living at 47 Lucile street, Atlanta, Ga.

Kaiser Spoke Sharply of Japan.

London, July 8.—Dispatches from Copenhagen stated that the kaiser, who is visiting there, spoke sharply of Japan when that nation was mentioned in his presence. He earnestly declared, it is said, that the greatest mistake ever made by the white race was the Anglo-Japanese alliance; he said that Europeans were acting most foolishly in allowing a yellow race to copy all their methods and learn all their secrets.

One Killed; Three Injured.

Schenectady, N. Y., July 9.—One boy was killed and another was fatally hurt and two others seriously injured as the result of a street car accident Sunday. The lads were riding on the running board on the wrong side of the car when a heavier closed car rounded a curve, sweeping Andrew Dulesowski off the running board and throwing him under the wheels.

Meeting Trouble.

More people would snap their fingers in the face of trouble if trouble didn't have such a sudden way of swooping down on us.—Chicago Record-Herald.

When a man seeks your advice he generally wants your praise.—Chesterfield.

A COUNTRY VISITOR.

The New York Man Felt Above Him, but Changed His Opinion.

One of the most successful wholesale dry goods merchants New York city ever saw had the peculiar habit of regarding as his inferior any man who was engaged in a business less genteel, as he held, than his own. In his employ was a young Vermonter, who felt highly elated when one day a man from his native town who was visiting the city called on him. The man was somewhat crude in his manners, but he had piled up a fortune in the tinware business and in buying up at a discount in times of panic commercial paper which he believed was good. The youth introduced the Vermonter to his employer.

"What business are you in?" asked the dry goods prince as the two shook hands.

Without a word the dry goods merchant turned on his heel and bolted into his private office. He didn't recognize tinware merchants as desirable acquaintances.

From his wallet the Vermonter drew several slips of paper, which he held up to the dry goods merchant's face. The merchant glanced at them and effusively bade the Vermonter welcome to his private office. The papers were notes to the extent of $50,000 uttered by the dry goods merchant and which, unknown to him, the Vermonter had bought up at a big discount.—Brooklyn Eagle.

OLD TIME CELEBRATIONS.

The files of old newspapers are a priceless record of the history and manners of their times. In the papers of 1796 the accounts of public rejoicings show that these were few in number and that the method of keeping them differed widely from our ideas of festivities. Washington's birthday was perhaps the greatest holiday.

"Industrious citizens," we are told, "appropriated the hour of noon for the congratulations of the day. Each family enriched the domestic meal with bountiful provisions, and gay spirits and temperate and undissembled joy pervaded all classes."

There were speeches and processions and illuminations for the less industrious who were willing to give something more than the hour of noon to the celebration, but the most memorable observance of the day was that of the Harvard students.

"Saying to each other that it would be disgraceful to pretend to honor Washington with riot and disorder, they retired to their chambers before 9 o'clock, and by the time the bells ceased ringing there was not a light to be seen in any of the buildings."

This is equaled by the summing up of the celebrations of Fourth of July for the same year, a day observed with great rejoicings. No accidents are reported, and the editor concludes, "In short, in every place we heard from happiness was the order of the day, tranquillity of the night."—Youth's Companion.
